

AWMS Conference Travel Subsidy Form

AWMS encourages and supports the participation of students and Indigenous peoples at our annual conferences. To encourage presentation at the annual AWMS conference, the AWMS Committee provides travel subsidies for AWMS members. To be eligible for a travel subsidy, eligible students and Indigenous peoples must present at the annual conference.

Students

Full-time students registered for the full conference are eligible for the following subsidies:

- AUD$300 for those who have been paid members of AWMS for three years or more.
- AUD$200 for students whose past and future paid membership totals less than three years.

The subsidy will be reduced proportionally for students registered for part of the conference. For part-time students, the subsidy will be 75% of the above full-time rates.

In years when the application for subsidies is high, preference will be given to those people whose experience is most relevant to the symposia planned for the conference. Information on claiming the subsidy will be provided at each conference.

The Conference Organising Committee will decide who will receive a subsidy as well as the value of each subsidy, and no correspondence will be entered into regarding these decisions.

Indigenous peoples

Travel subsidies and registration for Indigenous peoples will be considered (as per students) where Indigenous delegates cannot get full support from their member organisation, and where it is considered desirable for them to attend a specific symposium. If appropriate to their circumstances, free registration may be considered. Subsidies will be considered where applicants can:

- Identify themselves as an Indigenous person of Australia or New Zealand (other countries will also be considered).
- Are involved in wildlife management in that country.
- Will present a paper (spoken or poster) or have experiences relevant to a conference symposium.

To apply for the subsidy, please fill in this form. Please include proposed costs for travel, whether you are receiving any additional support, and comments or a letter outlining your circumstances. Please submit the form to the Conference Liaison Officer at least 30 days prior to the start of the conference:
